

July 13-15, 2007
Missoula, Montana

The 2007 State of the Rockies summer field work culminated with the Sopris Conference in Missoula, Montana. The Rockies team contributed to the conference by both providing relevant data published in the conference program, and through a display informing attendees of specifics about the Rockies Project. The Sopris Conference was a great opportunity to hear from the some of the most prominent luminaries in the region as well as networking and meeting with regional experts to answer specific inquiries.
