

I know myself. But it's amazing to think of the traits that I have that I don't want to have. I know them but working daily to distinguish between my good and bad habits. Although my first relationship was 8 years, in its total, I always had to leave. Okay, let's try again. But what are we doing through. That abandonment shit is real. I get it. I realize just how prevalent those "daddy issues" are. As big as I am about time, and not wasting it, I am understanding the enabler, I had become. Ultimately, I had "fix" broken men, knowing my ass was broken as well as hard.

by Dixit understand

Written in Our own Hand
An Art Installation by Daya T. Stanley '22

The fingers light to the soul

On View April 13th-15th
3-6 p.m.

Taylor Theatre

Sponsored by Colorado College
Feminist and Gender Studies Program

