WINTER 2012

The WOMAN'S EDUCATIONAL SOCIETY (WES) is an autonomous community organization founded on April 20, 1889, to foster support of Colorado College. Its purposes are to bring community and college together, to give assistance to students of the college, and to undertake programs and projects to benefit the college, particularly women of the college. Gifts to WES are tax-deductible. Newsfocus is published twice a year as a service to members and friends of WES.

Message from the Co-Presidents

Happy 2012 to you all - as we reflect on WES accomplishments, we can't believe we're well into Block V. We've added new board members, set records for fundraising, kept in touch with scholars and sponsored innovative programs for members and guests.

Kudos to Sally Metzger for chairing the best-attended Van Briggles tours ever and to Cathy Lewis for tirelessly promoting cards, bookmarks and Van Briggles booklets. Sharon Rice not only helped Marianne Stoller with another successful Southwestern trip, but led the program committee in sponsoring an ice cream social in September, Professor Mario Montaña's luncheon program in November and Jill Tiefenthaler's luncheon address in January. Our annual meeting and senior scholars' presentation luncheon will be April 26th. Please save the date!

With scholars in mind, Linda Boyles and B. Fox organized a welcome for new scholars and their parents in August and a chili supper in October. They're planning a scholar game night with pizza on February 22nd and a picnic on May 11th. Now that we're 123 years old, an ad hoc committee chaired by Sue Dilloway and Sally Metzger is revising A Quiet Work, and we're more aware of our amazing history.

Behind the scenes, board members worked on finance, membership and publicity. Many of us mentored scholars and continue to be incredibly proud of their accomplishments.

Much remains to be done: We must increase membership, maintain fund-raising and continue adding members to our board. We're searching for a trip coordinator volunteer so we can keep offering the popular WES trips.

Be sure to renew your dues. In these difficult times, talented CC scholars need support. WES keeps opportunities alive for America's future leaders. Contact us at WES@coloradocollege.edu or (719) 389-7699.

New WES Board Members

Beatrice Jefferson was born in Baton Rouge, Louisiana and is the proud mother of two children and four granddaughters. She earned her Bachelors degree in education from Southern University and later earned her Masters degree at Colorado College. Beatrice taught for 34 years in District Eleven in grades first through sixth. Teaching was one of the most rewarding experiences of her life, second only to being a parent. She says, "Working with children and impacting their lives in positive ways by helping to mold and influence them to become productive citizens in society has enriched my life in ways I could not have imagined. I am so proud to have been an educator." Beatrice has been a member of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority since 1973. She has built houses for Habitat for Humanity, volunteers with a literacy program at a local hospital to encourage reading in ill children, and works with the Ruby Hall Scholarship Program. She has been a Fine Arts Center Docent since 2005 and enjoys sharing her knowledge of art with students touring the FAC. Beatrice is also a member of Holy Apostles Catholic Church and volunteers there as a Stephens Minister.

Meg Chojnacki graduated from Colorado College in 1966 and spent the next 30 years traveling around the world, moving thirteen times! Meg spent the most time in Washington, D.C. and in the Far East including Japan and Korea. An educator, Meg earned a Masters degree from Gaudet University in Washington, D.C., in 1981. She had the distinct honor of being named one of the USA Teachers of the Year in 2001. She retired from teaching and started a consulting/interpreting business in 2003 and is completely retiring this year. Meg is married and has two sons.

Trish Eccles came to Colorado Springs during the summer 2011 with her husband who is on leave from Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology, Terre Haute, Indiana, to teach at the Air Force Academy through the academic year 2012-2013. Welcoming Trish to Colorado Springs was Shirley Woolley, co-president of WES. Shirley and Trish had volunteered together for several years in TREES Inc. in Terre Haute! Small world! Trish, in the late 1960s before she became an at-home mom to two children, was Assistant Dean of Women at the University of South Carolina, where she later taught Computer Science as an adjunct instructor. During the past twenty years in Indiana, she has served in a leadership capacity on the Boards of the Indiana Urban Forest Council, Terre Haute's City Tree Advisory Board, TREES Inc., Indiana National Road Association, National Road Alliance, and Rose-Hulman Women's Club. She also volunteered as coordinator of Adult Christian Education and part-time organist for St. George's Episcopal Church in West Terre Haute, Indiana.

Welcome Beatrice, Meg and Trish!

SCHOLAR UPDATES

Senior scholar Emily Moore is a sociology major with a minor in education. She enjoyed taking a summer class in Paris entitled, "19th Century Art and Music History." The art history portion of the course examined the birth, death and rebirth of Romanticism in painting. The studies were enhanced by visits to the Louvre, the Orsay and the Orangerie Museums. The music history portion focused on the music of Chopin, Liszt and Berlioz. During the three weeks of the course, the class attended several concerts. A portion of Emily's expenses was covered by THE DOROTHY P. BRYSON SPECIAL ASSISTANCE FUND. Emily is also the co-chair of the Break-Out program which is a service organization that sends student-led trips out to volunteer on Saturdays, block breaks and during spring break. She is also a member of the Relay for Life Committee where she is survivorship chairman and co-chair for the AppreCCIate Scholarship committee. Loving dance, she teaches little girls and was very proud of her accomplishments when her students performed in a recent recital. Emily is not sure of her plans after college, but she hopes to be involved in child advocacy. She has loved her sociology classes at CC and the wonderful internships that they have led to. Regarding her association with WES she states, "I am most appreciative of all the support from the WES ladies and my mentor, Shirley Woolley."

Senior Scholar Ann Evankow is a biology major. She describes 2011 as a phenomenal year for her major. In the summer she performed research as part of a National Science Foundation Research Experience for Undergraduates at the Mount Desert Island Biological Laboratory on the coast of Maine. Her daily schedule involved collecting water samples on the dock, wading in a meadow of sea grasses with a wetsuit and setting out buoys with the lab's motor boat. She had a perfect view of the bay from her work space, so even if she needed to enter data or write about the day's findings, she was in a beautiful place. While she was at the lab, she completed an independent research project on restoration methods of transplanting the sea grass species Zostera marina. This semester, she is expanding her research into a senior thesis. Annie also completed two exceptional classes this semester. In field botany with Professor Tass Kelso she spent many class periods on the outskirts of Colorado Springs collecting and identifying plant species. The class was even able to dry, mount and preserve some of the species for the Colorado College Herbarium. In third block she took Teaching Science and Health in Elementary Grades with Professor Mike Taber. She is thinking more about becoming involved with education. This class allowed her to spend time in a 5th grade classroom every weekday and practice teaching a few lessons. Annie says, "The WES has helped me tremendously to become a successful fourth year student at CC. Being a science major requires purchasing expensive books for class. We also rarely have time to keep a part time job because of morning class and afternoon labs. The book scholarship has allowed me to select classes without worrying about which books will be required. The WES members have also been extremely supportive since my first year at CC. Everyone keeps track of my accomplishments and wants to know how I am doing at the events. My WES mentor Gerri Anne Reed is always there for me, whether I need a ride to the airport, a place to spend Thanksgiving or someone to talk to. She has been there since the beginning and will remain a close friend after I graduate."

Scholar Christa Carroll is truly amazing as she is still listed as a junior WES scholar, but she is preparing her senior thesis and plans to graduate in 2012, one year early. Christa came to us in the fall of 2009 an exceptional student and a sweet young lady. At that time she was accompanied by Tyler, a young gentleman and a cadet at the United States Air Force Academy. Now Tyler and Christa are engaged and will be getting married in June in Rocky Mountain National Park. Tyler's major is developmental engineering and Christa hopes to get a Masters in library science. In her spare time, her passion is weaving. Right now she is working on her senior thesis which evaluates a set of paintings in the Topkapi Palace Library in Istanbul. They are attributed to a Muhammad Siyah Qalam (Muhammad of the Black Pen), although that's a false attribution. They are very interesting because they are a blend of Persian and Chinese styles. The paintings are of demons and nomads and seem to tell a story which appears to be lost.

Senior scholar Emily Conway also recently became engaged. Her long-time boyfriend Ben Schmitt proposed during a trip to Alaska last summer. They were on a kayaking trip in Tutka Bay, an isolated bay off of the Kenai Peninsula.

Congratulations Emily and Ben!

Desirae Martinez is a senior scholar majoring in math and has two minors, chemistry and feminist/gender studies. She is also working on premedical requirements. She was a 2010-2011 Euclid Scholar and she participated in the Summer Medical and Dental Education Program at the University of Washington School of Medicine, where she graduated with honors. Last summer, she was a research intern at the Oregon Health and Science University's Biostatistics and Bioinformatics department in Portland, OR, developing a statistical methodology for analyzing mass spectrometry data to understand sarcopenia in elderly men. She is also a mentor for the Early Birds and Mighty Math tutoring programs working with elementary and middle school students. Her experience in working with these students, all of whom come from low-income families, is that their lack of confidence in math tends to steer them away from scientific careers. In her opinion, if she wants to see more diverse students pursuing math and science careers, early education is the pivotal starting point. Desirae is a premedical student and her goal is to matriculate in the fall of 2013 or 2014, depending on whether she wants to take one or two years off after graduation. Her motivation for pursuing a career in health sciences stems from her passion for improving healthcare for underserved and underprivileged communities. For this reason, she is interested in a MD/MPH dual-degree program and would love to explore a career in emergency medicine, primary care, preventive medicine, or pediatrics. She has been an intern at Planned Parenthood of the Rocky Mountains Westside Clinic for the past year and a half. After graduation Desirae will be working with Americorps to be a tutor/mentor for middle and high school students. Desirae says "CC has been a wonderful academic experience for me. I love the block plan and the wonderfully dedicated professors who sincerely care about teaching their students. However, as a first-generation college student of color, I felt like I didn't belong here at times. There have been many cases when conversations in the classroom about gender and racial inequality mirrored the privileged socioeconomic status of the majority of the student population and left me feeling alienated. For this reason, I am so incredibly thankful to have been a part of WES. The ladies have always made me feel like family, and sometimes all you need is a chili dinner or a game night to make you feel welcome and at home."

Erin Conner, a sophomore scholar, has not yet declared a major, but is strongly looking at English with a minor in music. She plans to attend nursing school after she graduates from CC in 2014. Erin plays the cello in the orchestra, in a trio, and for herself, whenever she has the time to play. She works in the Career Center as the resume intern. She is planning on volunteering at Penrose Hospital next semester. She loves to read and enjoys running, cooking and yoga. She recently delved into reading the Fellowship of the Ring Trilogy. She is excited to travel to Ireland summer of 2012 to learn about Irish culture and music.

Tiffany Cardenas, a sophomore scholar, is planning on declaring neuroscience as her major. She enjoyed neuroscience when she took it first and second block this fall. She also enjoys other science classes affiliated with this major. This year, when she hasn't been busy with lab or studying she has been involved with Knots for Nets. This organization makes bracelets and sells them to raise money for the Against Malaria Fund and Rotaract's Game Club. This club plays games with underprivileged students at local elementary schools. Tiffany works for athletic marketing at the Tiger games. She distributes materials and sometimes participates in the "between period" activities at the World Arena. She loves this job as she gets to interact with the fans and feels inspired by the spirit that is shown for the Tigers. After graduation Tiffany plans to take a year off to travel and do research and then attend Physical Therapy school. Tiffany states "CC is awesome. I am so happy this is my home. Everyone I have met is just great and I especially love everyone in WES. They always make my day better, especially when I've had a busy and rough day!"

Sophomore Scholar Claire McNellan recently participated in the Western Regional Oireachtas (Irish dancing) Championship in Anaheim, California. She attended this event as a member of the McTeggart School of Irish dance's Senior Figure Choreography event. This is a team made up of 16 ladies from all over Colorado. They placed second in the event; it was an incredible time with a great finish. In December she participated in CC's International Service program to India which extended through 5th block. Claire says "I could not be more thankful for the aid WES has provided for me, both financial and social. The support, encouragement, and tasty homemade treats I receive from WES members mean so much, especially when I'm struggling through a difficult block. The WES scholarship money helps me to be able to afford such incredible opportunities as my trip to India. The pressure of affording expensive textbooks and materials is relieved and I am so grateful for that. Additionally, through WES, I have met student friends that have made my transition to CC so much easier! I am currently rooming with fellow WES scholar, Tiffany Cardenas, and we braved it through Neuroscience together earlier this year!"

Maia Wynn, Junior Scholar, is presently in London studying in a prestigious psychology program. Psychology is her major and she is intending to minor in Art Studio. Maia spends a lot of her time in choir; this is her 5th semester participating in Chamber Chorus. Maia enjoys photography, baking, singing and reading in her spare time. Upon graduating from CC she plans to attend a culinary school. Maia writes "CC has been good to me. I love the academics and the professors are amazing. I love the good ladies of WES. I always brag to my friends about how amazingly sweet you all are and they are always jealous of the goodie bags you guys send. The liberal arts education has really fostered my way of thinking, everything is interdisciplinary and it's fascinating! Taking a feminist class as a freshman for my FYE really affected my way of thinking in a good way! The professors in the psych department (mainly Tomi Ann Roberts and Emily Chan) have been great supporters and leaders for me."

What's WES Been Up To?

The Van Briggles Tour

This year's Van Briggles Tour was our best-attended yet! Over 300 people toured the historic pottery building, enjoying a lovely day and the fascinating history of Artus and Anne Van Briggles. This year we were lucky to have master stone carver Larry Terrafranca with us to discuss his artistic vision in creating the new wall on the corner of Uintah and Glen. We are so grateful to our WES tour guides and to all who helped with the tour.

Ice Cream Social

WES scholars and members enjoyed delicious treats at an Ice Cream Social held at Stewart House in September. A bit of rain didn't dampen any spirits as we enjoyed ice cream and great conversation!

Scholar Florita Villagrana was introduced as the Marianne Stoller Scholar.

Chili Supper

In October, scholars and members came together for a warm dinner on a cool evening. Our annual Chili Supper was a wonderful time. Scholars shared their news and we sampled a wide array of chilis, salads, breads and desserts. It was a lovely time!

Fall Luncheon

As promised, we didn't have to eat monkey at the November 30th WES luncheon!

What 75 WES members, guests and scholars did get to enjoy was a variety of foods common to the pre-Columbian peoples of North America, topped off with food that blended old-world cuisine with that brought by the Spanish, French and English to create what we now call "Mexican food."

It was a feast for the mind as well as the stomach as CC Professor Mario Montaña, an anthropologist specializing in studying these civilizations through food, helped us all learn about the ingredients, the cultures and the celebrations associated with the food. We tasted the original hot cocoa – without sugar, which would not have been available in the new world – then devoured our salads of jicama, cucumber, orange and mango with cilantro vinaigrette. Our main course, celebrating the colors of the Mexican flag, brought together the green poblano chili relleno, with ground meat (beef, not monkey), raisins and cinnamon in a white walnut sauce. On the side we enjoyed beautiful grilled squash, lightly seasoned with honey and sprinkled with pomegranate seeds. And finishing it off with more chocolate, Chef Ed of Bon Appétit created a flourless – that's right, no wheat flour before the Europeans came – chocolate cake. We enjoyed traditional beverages as well, hibiscus tea and coffee.

"How do you make that?" was the question on the minds of many. With help from Professor Montaña and Chef Ed, we will have the recipes available for a small donation at our Annual Meeting and Luncheon on April 26th. Watch for your invitations.

Professor Mario Montaña with Emily Conway and Beth Zautke

Huge thanks to Lana Coffman and Diane Benninghoff for planning a unique and exciting fall luncheon!

WES Trip: "The Wonders of Southeastern Utah"

"Wonders" in the above title, says it all!! How can one group of people be so very lucky to have ideal weather, scenery, companionship and the opportunity to learn while having fun? As you can imagine, Dr. Marianne Stoller shared her amazing knowledge about the land, the people and the history of the area. Gary Ladd provided us with fascinating geological information about the various landforms, but please do not ask us whether the formations were created in the Mesozoic or Cenozoic eras or if the land rocks were Navajo or Kaibab. Poor Gary, none of us could pass his tests, but we sure had fun learning about this magnificent area. Did you know that the sun is 5 billion years old and is halfway through its lifespan? Gary also shared his astronomy knowledge with us one evening.

The fall colors were spectacular and the Navajo guides in Monument Valley were fascinating. Do you know the difference between a male and female Hogan? We learned about this while exploring the region. The sites of Arches, Canyonlands, and Moab were inspirational. All 25 of us ate, played and appreciated Dr. Marianne Stoller's genius in planning this most memorable experience.

Thanks to Sharon Rice for keeping us well-fed, comfortably lodged and on schedule - all with a sense of humor, patience, and kindness.

Help Needed For Future WES Trips Marianne Stoller Retires

We wish to thank Marianne Stoller for initiating and planning sixteen highly successful WES Trips. Many of us have enjoyed traveling with her and learning from her amazing expertise. The income generated for the WES Scholarship Fund through Marianne's efforts has directly benefited our scholars and can never be duplicated.

We sadly report that Marianne needs to step down from her role as tour leader. She continues to have ideas and thoughts of future possibilities. Even though Marianne is irreplaceable, we might be able to offer additional trips if we can find volunteers interested in assisting with planning and logistics.

Anyone who wishes to express ideas about this or who wants more information should leave a message for us at (719) 389-7699. We will respond to all callers in a timely manner.

The WES Scholarship Fund has benefited greatly from our trips. All potential participants send a non-refundable deposit directly to tour organizer Marianne Stoller. We greatly appreciate the contributions made in 2011 by the people listed below.
