

home about the project report card conference blog in the news partners support the project contact us

State of the Rockies Summer 2005 Field Trips:

Rocky Mountain Biological Lab 8/3/05

The Rocky Mountain Biological Lab (RMBL), nestled into the beautiful mountains outside Crested Butte, Colorado, is a nonprofit organization that provides high altitude facilities to research scientists. We visited with the director of RMBL, Ian Billick, and climate change researchers, John Harte and David Inyoue, who introduced us to the current accomplishments and challenges of climate research and modeling.

