Environmental Possibilities in the Worship of Sacred Mountains and Trees in India

A talk by David L. Haberman
Thursday, February 4th, 2016 at 7:00 p.m.
Cornerstone Screening Room, Colorado College

David L. Haberman is Professor of Religious Studies at Indiana University and author of several books, including River of Love in an Age of Pollution: The Yamuna River of Northern India (Berkeley: University of California Press, 2006), and People Trees: Worship of Trees in Northern India (New York: Oxford University Press, 2013).

Sponsored by the Religion Department and The Thomas Alan Kay Fund.