

Jason Callegari '07 is a Program Office with the Buell Foundation, a statewide foundation focused on early childhood education, parenting education, and teen pregnancy prevention. As a Program Officer he is responsible for the northwestern portion of Colorado bounded by I-70 to the south and I-25 to the east.

Jason graduated from Colorado College in 2007 with a degree in Mathematical Economics. He was a yearlong PIFP fellow at cityWILD in Denver. Since that time Jason has held various positions focused on education, birth through 12th grade. Jason has worked for the Colorado League of Charter Schools, the Lieutenant Governor's office, and Qualistar Colorado.

In addition to the PIFP advisory board, Jason served on the board of Greenleaf from 2008-2014. Greenleaf works with high school youth to cultivate community and food justice through urban agriculture.

Jason spends much of his time outside of work in the outdoors trail running, road biking, backcountry skiing and relaxing.
