

FELLOW PROFILE

Fellow's Name: Jasmin Alsandra Thibou

Fellow's Partner Organization: The Gill Foundation

What are your main responsibilities as a PIFP fellow?

My main responsibilities are to research and report back on a variety of LGBT related issues from legislation to social movements. I generally work in collaboration with co-workers in order to produce cohesive results that offer guidance for multifaceted projects.

What's the most interesting thing you've learned in your fellowship so far?

The most interesting thing I've learned about is the role of local legislation and general politics in the movement for human rights acquisition for marginalized groups.

Why did you want to become a PIFP Fellow?

I wanted to become a PIFP Fellow because I wanted to be more involved in my Colorado community in a professional capacity.

What activities outside of your work do you enjoy?

Outside of work, I enjoy hiking, photography and exploring the city.

What is something most people would be surprised to know about you?

I plan to utilize my multi-cultural ties to work towards making a difference in the treatment of marginalized groups and individuals in a broader sense, expanding beyond the borders of the United States.
