PRE-REGISTRATION DEADLINE
OCT. 6, 2019
I am so pleased to be the new leader of the Alumni and Family Relations team! As you can imagine, it’s been a busy few months getting to know staff, faculty, alumni, parents, students, and friends, in the Tutt Alumni House, around campus, and in a number of cities.

Homecoming 2019, our largest on-campus event for alumni, will provide another opportunity to meet members of the CC community and if you and I have not been able to connect yet, I am hopeful we will be able to do so soon.

The Alumni and Family Relations team has been busy at work taking care to put the alumni and family community first in all that they do. I am thankful for the programs and events that are in place and the relationships that have been built and carefully maintained.

As I think about areas of focus for immediate and long-term programming, I am mindful of all that is beloved by this community while seeking new opportunities for engagement with the extended Colorado College family. I’m excited about developing a vision that includes building an engagement plan of action on campus for current students — as it relates to their lifelong membership in this community — while enhancing and maximizing touch points and programming both on-and off-campus. I am keen to build and cultivate relationships and engage outside of on-campus events. The connection to our alumni and family base is a priority.

I’m thrilled to be at Colorado College as it has been a part of my family’s history as well as my narrative as a Colorado Springs native. My great-grandparents arrived in Colorado Springs in the early 1900s. The home that they purchased on Cucharras Street was later listed in the “Green Book.” My brother, Brian Williamson ’96, attended CC as did his wife, Sarah Kleiner ’00, and my aunt, Terry Guillory ’76. My dad’s seventh grade teacher at North Junior High School was Nina Pellerin né Stroud who was the sister of Effie Stroud Frazier ’31. CC is much more than just a campus in my hometown.

After many chapters living on the East Coast, my husband Shawn and I decided, very intentionally, to move back to this place we know so well to raise our daughter, Eva. I’m glad to be at Colorado College, working with all of you, and being involved as a member of this community doing what I believe has been my purpose — bringing people together.

Although I have lived in many places and have experienced a multitude of cultures, organizations, and a variety of voices and walks of life, Colorado Springs always calls me back home. I know that many of you feel the same about this place. Thank you for coming back home. Thank you for giving back in a multitude of ways. And most importantly, thank you for your commitment to staying engaged with CC.

I am excited to embark upon this journey with you to engage and reengage the 30,000 CC alumni where they are, on campus and off campus, bringing them together near and far, so that their CC journey and lifelong learning continues! I look forward to meeting you in person soon! Onward!

Sincerely,

TIFFANY W. KELLY
Director of Alumni and Family Relations

He earned a bachelor of arts degree in anthropology from CC in 1974.
The Gresham Riley Award recognizes faculty and staff who have made a significant difference to the Colorado College community through outstanding service, commitment, and accomplishment. The continuing concern for and support of students and alumni demonstrated by such individuals ensures the general well-being and future excellence of the college. Professor Emeritus John Simons is the recipient of the Gresham Riley Award. Tutt Library. He wrote the original proposal for CC’s Film and Media Studies Program.

For three years, he was the National Endowment for the Humanities Professor. In 2018, Simons was a recipient of the President’s Leadership Award.

In addition to coordinating countless major and minor events on campus, she is married to Craig Soto and they are the proud parents of five children: Andrea, Craig John, Angello, Angelica, and Antonio ‘19.

She attended the University of Phoenix, earning a bachelor of science degree in 1998 and a master’s degree in computer information systems in 2000.
John Lamson Kessel ’74 is the recipient of the Louis T. Benezet Award. He has been coaching volleyball at the collegiate level or above since 1971. 2019 Colorado College Commencement Address
Opening Doors for CC Students

Through the campaign, we’re raising $100 million to secure financial aid for Colorado College students. These funds are providing access to the college through scholarships and also making the best CC experiences — like field study, internship funding, block breaks away, and study abroad — available to all students, regardless of their financial background.
Exploring What’s Ahead

Innovation at CC differentiates itself from other academic programs by bringing stronger focus to the dimension of creativity, the precursor to innovation. The four main areas Innovation at CC emphasizes are creativity, design thinking, risk/failure/resilience, and mindfulness. A $40 million goal was established to build a home for innovation on the Colorado College campus, establish new initiatives to support our unique vision for Innovation at CC, and permanently underwrite existing programs.

Our Distinctive Place

Through the campaign, we are seeking funds for building the Edward J. Robson Arena, bringing home hockey games to campus for the first time in the program’s 80-year history. The arena has the potential to transform the campus, enhance the student experience, and help us recruit the best Division I hockey players. Robson Arena also is aiming to become the first collegiate net-zero energy performance hockey arena.
A priority for Building on Originality: The Campaign for Colorado College includes reaching 50 percent participation in giving from alumni during the campaign. The amount of your gift is not as important as the gift itself. All gifts count toward the campaign and make a difference for the college and CC students.

You can make an unrestricted gift to the Annual Fund or any other area of the college. Visit www.coloradocollege.edu/campaign to learn more and to make a gift.

The Block Plan 2020 celebration marks the 50th anniversary of Colorado College’s innovative one-class-at-a-time academic system — the Block Plan.

Block Plan 2020 involves a year of celebratory events and programming, including three interconnected media projects that aim to capture the vitality of the inventors of the Block Plan. A film, book, podcasts, exhibits, and other commemorative programming will illustrate the impact the Block Plan has had on those who have experienced it as faculty, staff, and students, and will also raise questions about taking it into the next 50 years and beyond.

Alumni who attend Homecoming 2019 will have a chance to contribute to the Block Plan 2020 project by participating in informal interviews about their CC experience on the Block Plan at Registration Central in Tutt Library during the weekend. See page 11 for details.
