

We are just days away from the start of construction on CC's new library. Here's what you need to know as the project gets underway.

Tentative Construction Dates

- Monday, May 2: Ramp construction begins for new entry on the east side of Tutt South
- Tuesday, May 17: Be prepared for construction fencing and heavy equipment (and associated noise) on the Armstrong Quad and around the current library building.
- Monday, May 23: Digging new parking lot west of Mathias Hall
- Wednesday, June 1: Delivery of Mod Pod (scheduled opening July 1)
- Crews have already transplanted trees from the construction areas near Palmer Hall to outside Slocum Hall.

Parking

- During the summer, parking in any college lot is free and available without a permit. Parking in the Tutt Library C-1 lot, Nevada E-1 lot, and Armstrong C-2 lots will be limited.
- We have submitted a parking plan for the fall to the City of Colorado Springs and anticipate an update within a few weeks.
- Campus Safety will send information about applying for academic year parking permits once the city has approved the parking plan.

Study Spaces

- During Blocks A and B, study space is available in Tutt South and Worner Campus Center during regular hours of operation.
- View designated study spaces and hours of availability for the 2016-17 academic year.
- The plan for study spaces includes a campus shuttle, Campus Safety patrols, and extended hours of operation.

Book Retrieval

- Library users may request materials through the “Tiger” online library catalog.
- A detailed process and summer schedule for retrieval of library materials will be available before the end of Block 8.
- Special Collections, current periodicals, new books, leisure reading, the Art Reading Room, reference books, DVDs, and reserved materials will be accessible in Tutt South throughout the construction.

Celebrate the Library Renovation

- Stay tuned for details on a celebratory event held on the library front patio next Friday, May 6.
- A box of sticky notes is available near the main library entrance; use those to post good-bye messages to your favorite study spots or special places within the library.
