

WHAT KIND OF HOST ARE YOU? WHAT KIND OF HOST DO YOU WANT TO BE?

Self-reflection and communication with your housemates are essential to being an active host

Active vs. Passive Hosting

- Are you aware of the responsibilities and opportunities of hosting?
- Do you feel equipped to facilitate the party dynamic?

Positionality and Situational Privilege

- What social capital do you have in this situation?
- How might your experience differ if you didn't have that capital? e.g. if you didn't know many people at the party, were an underclassman, felt that the other people at the party weren't like you?

Communication Skills

- Do you talk openly with your housemates about goals and parameters of the party?
- Do you indicate to guests that you care about their experience while they're at your house?

Goals Aligning with Experience

- What do you need to do to achieve your goals?
- Given that our campus culture isn't yet consent-oriented, trauma-informed and inclusive, how can you actively pursue that type of environment?
